

Kashmir Debate In British Parliament

On 11 September 2014

Dear Members of Parliament:

I have been informed that there is going to be a debate called by Liberal Democrat MP David Ward regarding Kashmir on 11 September 2014 in Parliament.

The question I would like to ask you all the member of British Parliament is why the UK parliaments wants to debate Kashmir?

Should the Indian Parliament discuss Mavinus the Falklands Northern Ireland, Scotland, Wales and all the Union Territories still under British Colonial rule?

Pakistan and Bangladesh is the Bastard Child of the British Colonial Divide and Rule Policy. Giving 6% of the then Muslim Population of pre-partition India nearly one third of the land area (excluding Pakistan Occupied Kashmir) and leaving a legacy of 25% of the then Muslim population in India in 1947?

After the 1948 war Pakistan occupied part of Kashmir and the Siachin Glacier. Large part of that has been given to China. Why, when it is Indian Territory? A question here is: How a newly formed state can have such a powerful army to invade India in 1948? History shows that Lord Mountbatten and the then British Prime Minister had planned all this. They supplied Jinnah with women and alcohol when in UK planning the division of India was in progress.

Our concern is that both--Mahatma Gandhi and Nehru--failed to see what was happening under their nose. Was Nehru bought over or was blinded by love that the British deliberately and calculatingly allowed Mountbatten's wife to have an affair with Nehru?

- 1. As you are aware, the Indian position on Kashmir is very clear, i.e. Kashmir is an integral part of India, and so is the Pakistan occupied Kashmir and the Siachin Glacier.
- 2. The British, American, China and Saudi Arabia have created trained and funded the terrorist group in Pakistan specifically to destabilize India using the British Bastard Legacy of certain Sunni Muslim in India as conduit to achieve whatever is the their intended goal.

3. The attachment provides a true documented history of such colonial hypocrisy and continuing British arrogance of looking inward of their disastrous colonial legacy.
4. India is the largest democratic country in the world. Pakistan is not a democratic Country. It is governed by The ISI and the Let.
5. I do know that British culture always supports its Bastard child.
6. I feel we Indians should now expose those procrastinating the colonial past for their political appeasement
7. Majority of Kashmiris, including Pakistan Occupied Kashmiris, want to be part of India. Recent opinion poll found that over 68% of Indian Muslims felt safer under the Modi government than previous governments. Mr. Modi himself has visited the state twice already to launch various development projects. His government has demonstrated unprecedented commitment to the economic and social progress of Jammu & Kashmir.
8. The same should be permitted in Pakistan Occupied Kashmir under International supervision. This the British, American and Wahabhi Saudi Arabia do not want.
9. Prime Minister Modi during his election campaign talked about Hindu/Muslim unity and called upon Pakistan to join India in the real battle for the people of the region - the fight against poverty. This is a fight that should be supported by the British Parliament.
10. There are several issues that need to be taken into consideration, and they are stated below for your perusal.
 - a) One must not forget the systematic ethnic cleansing of Kashmiri Hindus by terrorists from the Kashmir state over many years. We should support and look at ways in which their land, culture, and pride as a peace loving people can be restored with dignity. Why the British Parliament not discussing this?
 - b) I am sure you will agree that the UK Government and people and all political parties should be doing at this time is to encourage and support the Indian government's efforts to ensure free and fair elections in the state and to welcome the genuinely inclusive economic and social policies of the new Indian government.
 - c) I am proud that what is said in the UK parliament matters internationally. Therefore, I like many British Indians are concerned that the Lib Dem sponsored debate will turn into a pure India-bashing show piece, which will do nothing but fuel terrorist groups on the sub-continent. It will be counterproductive for UK-India relations, and most importantly it will serve as a reference point for groups who are determined to undermine India's democratic process and economic progress.
